Eighteen-year-old web entrepreneur Ronnie Wright owns the virally popular website, inkBLOT. Determined to sweep local newspaper reporter, Chelsea Pressman, off her feet, he tries to wow her with his internet success.

Chelsea has one goal, making it big as a reporter. Unfortunately, the editor isn't tossing any good stories her way. Her luck changes and she is first in line to cover a string of bizarre crimes. The notoriety she's gaining from the front-page stories is addictive.

The police finally trace the crimes to a common link – inkBLOT.

Can Ronnie clear his name as the #1 suspect in Chelsea's headline crimes?
